4 To The D. G. of Police, The Comptroller and The Dy Commrs of Distts G. O. No. PWR 1929-38 d/ 14.3.1904

Sanctions an extraordinary pension of Rs 2 3/4 per mensem to Govinda the eldest son of Hanmantha, for the support of the family, with effect from the 28th September 1900 until he is 18 years old, and issues instructions in the matter of the grant of extraordinary pensions or gratuities to the families of public servants who die of plague caught while in the execution of Government Service.

Order No 1531/2 P&A dt 8/12/04.

A mistake has clearly been made in this case. The deceased left a minor son (aged 2 years) a widow and a mother - all in a destitute condition following the precedents adopted in order No P&A 1280 dt 7-1-04 and the principles intended to be enunciated in it but which for some reason were omitted to be enunciated a pension of Rs 2-12-4 ought to have been given to the minor son until he is 18 years old. But I find that the Secretary rejected the first application granting a pension & proposed a reward and granting the minor a gratuity of Rs 50 - I would suggest that this order be recalled & a more correct one issued -

2. I note that even in ordinary cases, involving no widows or minor dependants the maximum gratuity payable is Rs 100 - why in the present case, it was reduced to Rs 50 I am unable to understand.

3. In order to secure uniformity in the submission of proposals by Town & the Dept of Police (2) the preparation of Pension Rolls by the Comptroller, & (3) the keeping of orders by Govt., it was ordered that certain principles be laid down in the order of 7-1-04 above referred to - This was not done. How there are any Dy Comrs the Comptroller to know what recommendations they are to make? The last para of the said order is not ~~clear~~ explained, nor is the statement appended to it self explanatory.

In framing the order in the present case, an opportunity may be taken of laying down clear instructions for observance in future cases. The idea is that when the income is below 10 years, gratuity only is admissible except where there are distinct reductions or minor loans, and that when the income is 10 years & above, a pension is allowable in all cases.

Second Councillor's note d. 13-2-04

To Secure uniformity in the grant of extraordinary pensions, a Scale was proposed by the Secretariat and it was approved by the Councillor and the Dewan. In approving the Scale, the Dewan made the following remarks:—

"I agree. these proposals may be adopted as practical rules of business for guidance in office. The applications may be dealt with accordingly and in the final order it may be stated that these principles guided the action of Govt."

Accordingly two alternative draft ~~order~~ orders were submitted by the principles only and the other the — principles as well as the proposed Scale.

The Secretary approved the former, which
*Flag C. was accordingly issued as Govt Res:
*Flag C. No Pta 1280/1 d. 7th Jany 1904. The 2nd Councillor ~~states~~ is pleased to say in para 3 of his present note that the last para
of this Govt Res: is not self-contained,
that the statement appended thereto
is not self-explanatory, that the Dy Commrs and the Comptroller are left in the dark as to what recommendations they are to make and that therefore clear instructions may be laid down
for observance in future cases
and communicated to the Dy Commrs, the Comptroller and the
I. G. of Police.

2. Further the 2nd Councillr.
States in paras 1 and 2 of his note
*Flag D that the G. Res: No Pta 1531-2 d: 8th Feby 1904 is wrong, that —
following the precedents adopted
*Flag C. in order No Pta 1280 d 7th Jany 1904 and the principles intended to be enunciated therein, a pension
of

of Rs 2-12-0 p.m ought to have been sanctioned instead of the gratuity that has been sanctd, that the order should therefore be recalled and a correct one issued. It is submitted that a draft order, which was prepared by the office, in accordance with these views of the Councillor; ~~it~~ was not approved by the Secy who then ordered the submission of a fresh draft sanctioning gratuity, which was accordingly done, passed by the Secy and issued as G. Pen: No Pla 1531-2 d 8/2/04.
